HUNGER & MOURNING

DEBUT ALBUM · OUT NOW

Motion + melancholy.

The music moves forward. The emotion keeps looking back.

SIRACUSA / ITALY

An autobiographical project

Angelo Licalzi is an independent artist from Siracusa and the person behind SIMOCENTRICO.

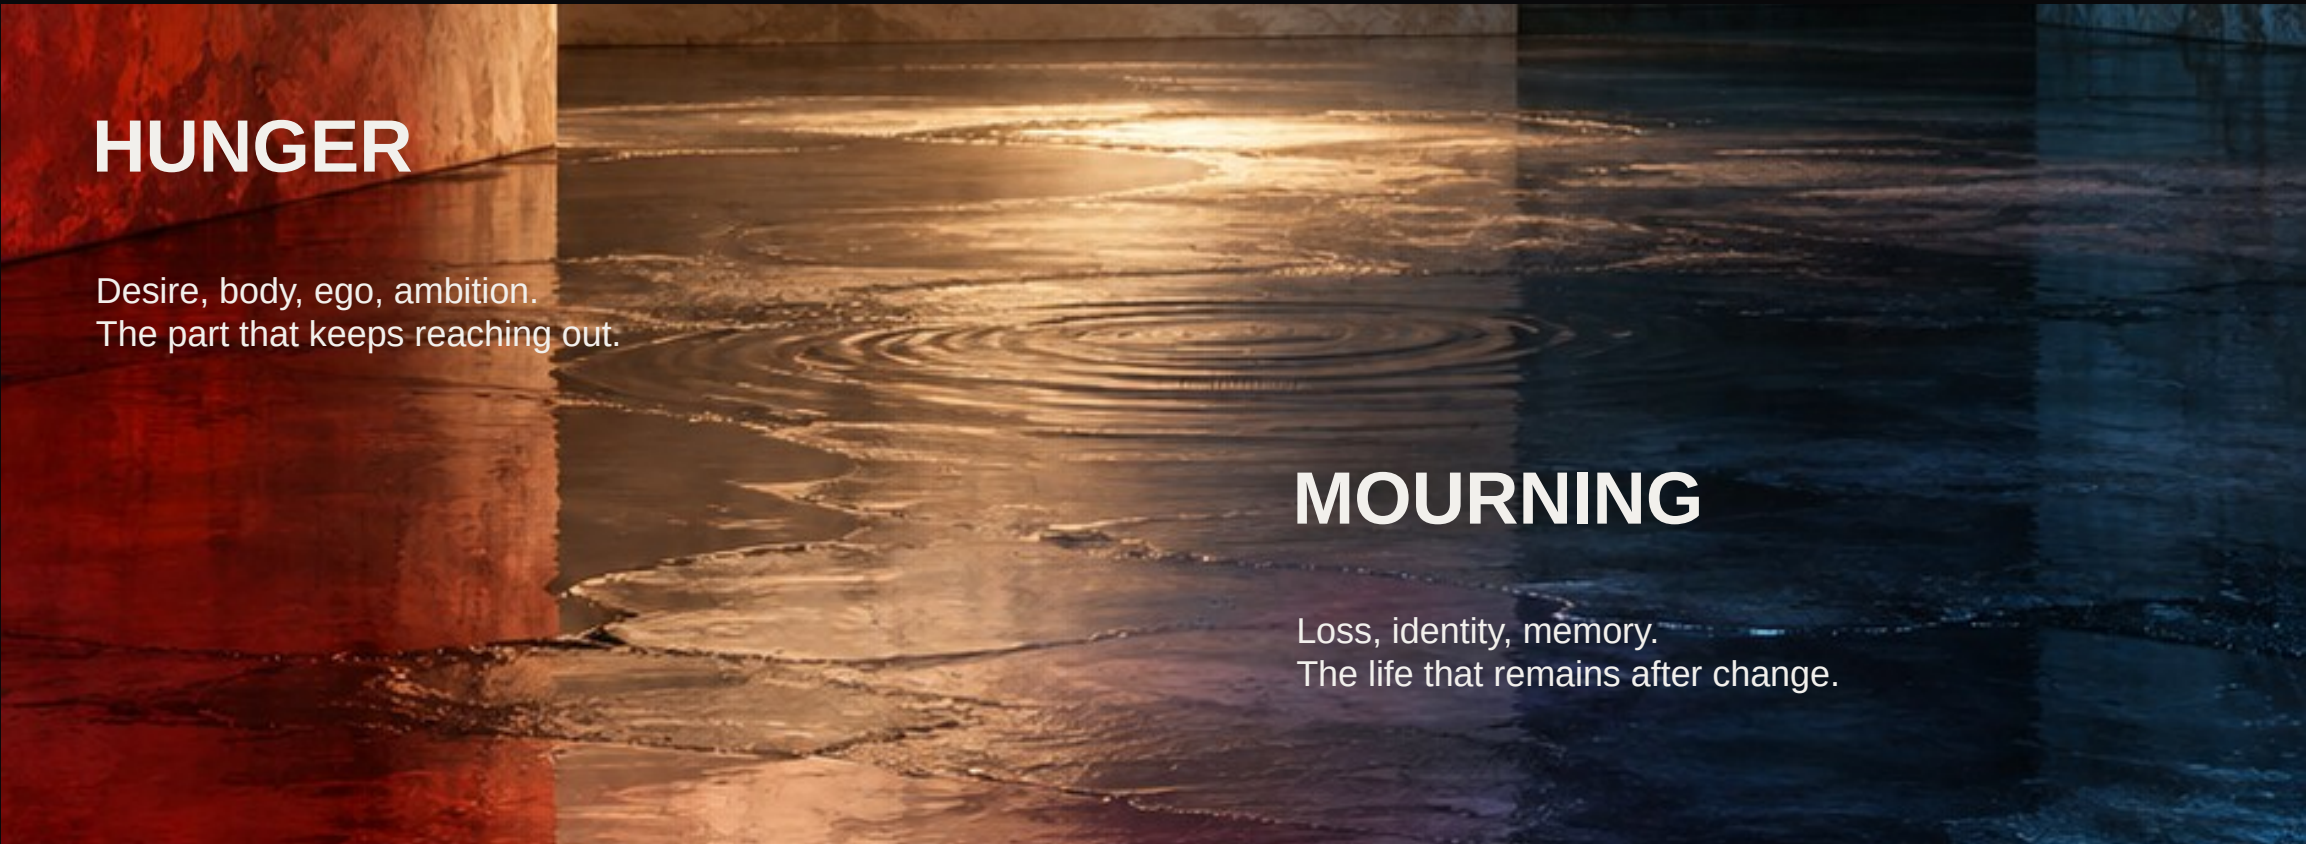

The project turns lived experience into alternative electropop, synth-pop and dark pop. Its songs move through identity, desire, loss and the need to feel present again.

Angelo leads the writing, concept and artistic direction. The vocals begin with his own recordings and are transformed with Suno. ChatGPT assists with lyric development and music prompts.

Two impulses in the same person

HUNGER

Desire, body, ego, ambition.
The part that keeps reaching out.

MOURNING

Loss, identity, memory.
The life that remains after change.

HUNGER & MOURNING begins where desire continues while identity processes a loss.

One voice, shifting productions

Alternative synth-pop sits at the heart of the record.

The production moves between electronics, organic elements, rhythmic tension and more intimate moments. Each song keeps its own shape: melancholy and motion coexist without being forced into a single preset.

THE WRITING

Autobiographical and concrete. Rooms, gestures, work, desire and identity become song details. The narrator can be vulnerable, ambitious, ironic or contradictory.

Stated influences: Elisa, Madonna, Allie X, IAMX, Mansionair, Subsonica and XXXTentacion.

Three entry points into the album

01 I WANT TO WANT

The first single, released September 25. It explores anhedonia and the desire to want again.

02 USEFUL

The second single, released October 1. It brings the need to feel useful and needed to the foreground.

03 HUNGER & MOURNING

The title track, released with the album on October 9, brings together the project's two emotional movements.
